JT INTERNATIONAL PARTNERSHIP

Intelligence expertise and psychological insights to help Governments and Corporate Clients identify and manage risk

A  Company

JTIP employs intelligence expertise and psychological insights to help Governments and Corporate Clients identify and manage risks.

We provide training and advice to Governments to improve the capabilities of intelligence and security agencies and contribute to better national security policy.

We work with companies to:

- Understand the motivations and personal characteristics of potential partners, competitors and mergers/acquisition targets
- Introduce practices to reduce the risk from disillusioned employees
- Gain insights into external threats.

JTIP's staff and advisers are drawn from British Government departments, academia and business.

We work in strict accordance with UK and international Human Rights practices and legislation, including the OECD-DAC Guidelines on Security and Justice Sector Reform.

JTIP is part of PGI, a global company specialising in integrated risk management services including cyber security, open-source intelligence, maritime security and human behavioural analysis.

Advice to Training Departments

JTIP has delivered high quality training for over ten years. JTIP's founder John Taylor is the co-author of the text book 'Learning at Work'. He has been involved in the intelligence and security industry for 40 years, and has twenty years' experience of training. He was also an operational officer working against the toughest targets faced by the UK.

We have developed a 'Training for Trainers' course that has been delivered to over 25 services. We continue to update the course and always adapt it to the educational and practical needs of the organisation.

Recent and Current Work

Recent and current work by JTIP include:

- Operational management in West Africa
- Training Needs Analysis and delivery of training in a Middle Eastern counter corruption unit
- Design and delivery of a 15 week training course for specialist investigation officers in an Asian country
- Advice to major multinational companies on the detection of fraud and corruption

John Taylor is also co-author of the book 'Bad Apples' which was shortlisted for the CMI book awards. This highly regarded book investigates in detail the causes of fraud and corruption from 'insider threats' and presents proven management and prevention techniques.

Operational Training

This summary describes the range of training courses and other services which we provide. Please contact us if you have other services that you require and we will let you know very quickly whether we or one of our partners can deliver.

Source Handling JTIP designs and delivers a wide range of courses on running sources and informants. Recent work includes an intensive course on all aspects of source handling, advanced case officer courses and one-to-one specialist training.

Operational Security & Tradecraft Front line operators and organisations are increasingly vulnerable to threats from terrorists, criminals, cyber-attack and hostile intelligence and security forces. We provide courses to maximise operational security and protect people and organisations from physical, reputational and operational threats.

Surveillance, Anti-Surveillance and Counter-Surveillance JTIP employees and associates have long and recent experience in all forms of surveillance. We build teams, train them and provide the best communications systems for surveillance operations. We also train people in how to identify surveillance when on operations.

Analysis We train the basics of deductive analysis, including associated software; we also provide advanced training in inductive reasoning so analysts are better equipped to predict events.

Interviewing Skills Collecting information from other people is a core skill. We provide expert training on eliciting information for numerous reasons - assessing people, negotiation and throughout the workplace...

Lawful Interrogation Using techniques developed in the police we can significantly increase the amount of accurate information collected either by training others or conducting the investigation ourselves. These techniques respect Human Rights - strictly in accordance with prevailing legislation - and are proven methods for eliciting useful and accurate information.

Detecting Deceit

In interviews people omit important information, deceive and sometimes forget. Our staff work closely with psychologists who are experts in the field of detecting deceit. We can bring these skills to our clients through training and as an advisory service. Polygraph training is normally an integral element of these courses.

Leadership, Strategy and Management

We deliver leadership and management courses to all levels of people in an organisation, including national security councils and executive boards. This can be through traditional courses or by one-to-one executive coaching.

Technical Advice

JTIP provides advice, operational support and training on a wide range of technical issues of interest to security services.

This ranges from security assessments, to photography, to providing advanced IT skills. For example, we have experts in IT systems that have considerable experience in designing and building systems both small and large. This training is delivered by close associates of JTIP that have a wide range of experience.

Our services are closely integrated with PGI sister companies, allowing us to deliver comprehensive and unified advice on cyber security, open-source intelligence including social media monitoring, and physical protection.

Integrating the specialist skills of three authors, 'Revealed' provides insights into what influences a person's behaviour. It helps the reader assess individuals, without meeting the person. Negotiators and recruiters can then identify potential 'dark side' behaviours and an individual's real motivation.

PGI is a privately owned UK business offering integrated, intelligence-led risk management solutions. We operate in emerging and frontier markets, complex jurisdictions and environments and draw our experience and expertise from British Government, intelligence, military personnel and commercial organisations. Our key service capabilities lie in: Corporate Intelligence and Risk Analysis, Maritime Security, Cyber Security and Forensics, Human Behavioural Analysis, Security Training and Consultancy. PGI specialises globally in the secure protection of our clients' assets; human, physical, legal, intellectual property, financial and operational.
